

GRANDMA (Side #1)

Hi— Oh, they're gone already... I'll say hello to you, then, since you're still here. That's a nice suit, by the way... you should really wear that more often... [...] I think I left the case for my glasses here last night. I couldn't find it when I got back home. I looked all over, you know — I checked my purse, I checked by the bed... I checked everywhere at home, but I couldn't find it. So I can only assume I left it here. I know I brought it over with me last night... or at least I think I did... I don't really remember. But I figured I would come over here and look for it.

GRANDMA (Side #2)

Oh, I found my case... Of all possible places, it was in the refrigerator. It's almost like some gremlin was pulling a prank on me— Or maybe I accidentally put them there when I was putting the vegetables in. I may have been holding both at the same time — you know, the vegetables and my glasses case — and I could have just left the case in there with the vegetables...
